Sharing Her Story

"Just posted my testimony - little scary but now I'm feeling like a boss and listening to some celebratory One Direction."

This post was made on Facebook by Kylee, one of our student leaders at Wake Tech Community College. Kylee was participating in something we do called Great Commission Week. During this week, we provide devotionals on the heart behind evangelism, equip them on how to share their faith, encourage them to initiate spiritual conversations with others, and challenge them to post their testimonies on social media for their friends to see.

Kylee gave her life to Christ a few years ago, has been involved with Cru for 1.5 years, is being disciplined by one of our staff members, and is even discipling another student. But, she had never shared her faith story publicly and was very nervous about it.

After sharing it on Facebook, she received this response from one of her friends:

"I just watched your video and it literally made me cry. I am really proud of you and how amazing you are to share that with everyone. I have been in a rut these last couple months and maybe this is what I needed to help me figure everything out and to change my perspective on life. I was very religious growing up, but it stopped abruptly one day. I think since that day I have been pretty lost. Maybe some day we can talk about this and you can help me get back into it."

Through sharing her spiritual journey, God opened doors for her to talk with one of her friends about Christ! Praise God for students who are taking steps of faith and trusting God to open doors to share Christ with others. Thank you for making this possible!!

Prayer Requests:

- Students like Kylee are signing up to go on summer mission trips around the world - so far, we have 6 students that have applied. Pray that more will apply and serve the Lord through their summer!
- Pray for our mens and women retreats we are having in March.
- Pray that more laborers - student leaders, volunteers, and churches would be raised up to help us reach our campuses.
- Pray that Blake will continue to grow and be healthy despite his heart defect.
